Pioneering Management Education for Global Corporate Citizenship & Peace

Dean's Message

Management is a dynamic function. Management education, therefore, demands continuous innovation. All great centres of higher learning in management education have shown exemplary resilience in the face of VUCA times. MIT-WPU carries forward that spirit and brings in new and emerging dimensions to teaching, learning, and research in business education while embedding industry insights and experiential learning into each curriculum.

In a way, we follow the 'great traditions' in management education by integrating case studies, simulations, skills development, and rural and international immersions, at the same time we develop our own 'little traditions' in infusing the Indian ethos and spirit into management education and localising our content and cases. Management for Global Peace is our mantra. No other university other than ours in the world has a demonstrated commitment to work to create business leaders for building peace.

With world-class teaching, research, and on-campus facilities along with highly competent and industry-oriented faculty, all our specialised courses have been unique programmes attracting global attention. Our MBAs develop holistic leaders as our course content has been multidisciplinary, technology-driven, case-based, solution-oriented, forward-thinking, and entrepreneurial.

With a global presence of our alumni who bring their unique academic and industry networks to us for higher research, training, internships, and placements. Our pool of international faculty members adds immense value to keep us engaged in global discussions and innovations in the industry, job market, and patents.

Here, our students are not just interested in receiving knowledge, getting good grades, and graduating, but they emerge as collaborators and co-creators of knowledge. This makes us different from other institutes and they represent us as our brand ambassadors of knowledge and problem-solving.

MIT-WPU is a firm believer in the combined power of science and spirituality. Building inner strength, and focusing on self-development, our School of Management is a leader in India to incorporate ancient Indian values with modern business education. We equip our young leaders to effectively handle stress while developing superior skills to manage Black Swan events like COVID-19.

May I invite all of our students, parents, professionals from industry, academics, policymakers, and staff members to join us in our endeavour to create a world-class business education centre at MIT-WPU and add value to India's rise as a global power?

Wishing you great luck!

Peace Studies: Fostering Holistic Growth

Understanding the importance of inner and social peace and conflict management skills is crucial in today's world. MIT World Peace University has adopted UNESCO's core vision of 'Building Peace in the Minds of Young Men and Women' as its guiding ethos.

The university offers a mandatory course of peace studies that lays the foundation for spiritual peace and harmony. It explores new ideas and practices from various cultures to tackle the challenges of global peace and sustainable development. The university also plans to introduce an advanced postgraduate degree programme in Peacebuilding and Conflict Management that offers state-of-the-art learning opportunities to study traditional and contemporary pedagogies of peacebuilding and conflict management.

The main objective of this course is to prepare students to become agents of social change and genuine global citizens. It trains them in non-violent communication to promote peace and prevent violence in communities and workplaces. Furthermore, the peace studies module also acquaints students with diverse yoga practices that enrich their cognitive prowess and information base, refining critical thinking and enhancing their overall personality. This interdisciplinary course, developed with input from scholars and practitioners worldwide, helps students build knowledge of India's spiritual and cultural ethos. Additionally, the course covers essential conflict management knowledge and skills that are in high demand in today's corporations.
